

[\[Instructions for Use\]](#)[\[Hinweise zur Benutzung\]](#)

Foreword:	3
On the Political and Aesthetic Dimensions of the Public Enemy Winfried Pauleit
 Aesthetics and History of the Gangster Film
From the Shadows into the Shadows:	8
Mervyn Le Roy's LITTLE CAESAR, the Classic American Gangster Film, and the Vertical Urban Journey Daniel Illger
Amusing the Audience, Defying the Authorities:	23
Female Criminals in the Silent Cinema Annette Förster
Baad Cinema:	39
The Gangster Connection in African American Film Jonathan Munby
Bang! Le Cinéma, c'est moi!	54
On the Founding Act of Cinematographic Authorship in the Figure of the Public Enemy Winfried Pauleit
 Scenarios of Surveillance and Control
Aliens, Brainwashing, Cold War:	71
Constructions of the Enemy in US Instructional Films Ramón Reichert
Five Tapes, Four Halls, Two Dreams:	85
Vicissitudes of Surveillant Narration in Michael Haneke's CACHÉ Thomas Y. Levin
Phantom Images of Abstract Existence:	97
The Scene of Surveillance in the Films of Christian Petzold Daniel Eschkötter
An Image of the Control Society:	110
On Kinji Fukasaku's BATTLE ROYALE Kentaro Kawashima

---

[\[Instructions for Use\]](#)[\[Hinweise zur Benutzung\]](#)

Constructions of the Self and the Other

MARX ATTACKS!	123
The mise en scène of the Other in B Movies Charles Tesson
Undead (The Hate Thing)	136
Markus Metz and Georg Seeßlen
Ordinary Germans	152
Judith Keilbach
Frontal Perspectives:	162
Take a Picture of Yourself Every Day Dietmar Kammerer
The Contributors	177
Credits	180

---